

Pattonville board hires new food services director

The Pattonville Board of Education on May 8 hired Teree Davis as the district's new director of food services. Davis currently serves as the interim director of food services and is in her 17th year working in Pattonville food services.

She was previously a food service supervisor in Pattonville, as well as an assistant and lead cook. Davis has studied at the St. Louis Community College at Forest Park and attended numerous food service-related workshops and seminars. She holds the following certificates/awards: food sanitation certificate, technology certificate, first-line supervision, and school food service management of quantity food production and nutrition. She is currently president-elect of the St. Louis School Food and Nutrition Directors Association and holds membership in numerous regional, state and national school food service associations.